Citizens' military companies have been organized, rifle clubs formed and endorsements framed by chambers of commerce. In Cleveland, arrangements are going forward for a monster military parade on Washington's birthday as a demonstration of the city's support of preparedness. A citizens' school, with 700 recruits enrolled, drills rookies at night in military tactics. S. S. Walsh has donated the use of 18 acres of land in the city limits for use as a rifle range. At Canton, O., a citizens' military school, conducted by O. N. G. officers, with 300 men enrolled, has been started. A rifle club of 100 has also been formed and the defense committee, headed by Mayor C. A. Stobbe, is planning to organize a light artillery company. Dayton is organizing a citizens' military company. A machine gun company was recently established as part of the national guard. Youngstown has a citizens' military company of 350 men. The chamber of commerce has endorsed preparedness. Steubenville has a rifle club just organized, and plans to establish a county, encompassing similar to the Plattsburg camp, next summer. National guard officers at Geneva and Ashtabula have endorsed preparedness and the chamber of commerce is trying to secure a government munitions plant. Sandusky has revived its national guard company and has formed a citizens' military company. Warren is planning a citizens' military company. Fremont has begun a campaign for a new armory, and a citizens' military company. Painesville's Paradise club has leased a rifle range. Mansfield has a citizens' reserve company.

WIRELESS MESSAGE RELAYED ACROSS U. S. BY AMATEURS

One Hour and Eleven Minutes Taken to Send Message--Experiment is Successful

Message Reached Clearfield at 11:40 Started at Davenport Iowa and Sent to Every State in the Union.

Last evening at eleven o'clock, a message was flashed from Davenport, Iowa, which was relayed throughout the United States by amateur wireless operators and in many cities was carried to the mayor by boy scouts. There were no government stations in this relay as value the amateur operators would be to the government in spreading a report, such as in case of war.

The message as received by the Leitinger machine was as follows: "A democracy requires that a people who govern and educate themselves should be so armed and disciplined that they can protect themselves."

The message was started at eleven o'clock eastern time and it took the amateur operators only one hour and eleven minutes to spread the message throughout the United States. Over three hundred operators in every state in the union received this message and then relayed on to some other station. On account of a federal law, amateur operators are allowed to operate a machine which can send a message only seventy miles.

The message was received at Ridgeway at 11:40 o'clock and was then sent to Clearfield. The boy scouts of Company No. 2, who were awaiting the message, left the Leitinger store at 11:35 and therefore did not get to carry it to the burgess, as they had planned.

Behind this demonstration stands a wholly serious experiment for the government as this was an effort on the part of army officials to ascertain the value of amateur operators in sending a government message to every city in the country. The experiment was a complete success and the message was spread in less time than was expected by the officials.

When Fox appears before the grand jury tomorrow with the record which he failed to bring yesterday, Humes expects to leave no detail of expenditure untouched.

Four of the victims were trapped inside the house and their bodies were found after the flames fought their way through the flames to the upper floor. An unidentified man jumped from the rear window on the fourth floor and struck a fence. His head was almost severed. The boarding house was a five story stone structure just off Broadway which had formerly been a private residence. A restaurant is on the ground floor. G.O.P. DELEGATES OF MINNESOTA TO VOTE FOR CUMMINS

No Rival to Wilson Placed On Ballot--Prohibitionist Have Two Candidates

Several Other Aspirants For Nomination Fail to Secure Signatures to Place Names on Ballot.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 22.—Four weeks from today a general primary will be held in Minnesota for the selection of delegates to the national political conventions. Under the law choice of candidates must be expressed by ballot, somebody in particular must be voted for. The candidates for delegates to the national conventions must signify their choice of presidential candidate and place their names under his. They cannot express preference for a presidential candidate on the ballot.

Six months ago many the Republican leaders were anathematizing the "cumbersome" primary law and wondering how it would work out in actual practice. As a petition with 500 signatures is all that is required to put a candidate for the presidential nomination in the running, it was predicted that there would be such a long list of candidates on the ballot that the voters would be all at sea when it came to expressing their choice.

But nothing of the kind has occurred. The names of only three aspirants for the Republican presidential nomination will appear on the ballot, and of these only one is considered in the running. That one is Senator A. B. Cummins of Iowa, who is considered certain to have the support of the Minnesota delegates at the Chicago convention. The other two—Henry Estabrook, of New York, and William G. Webster, of Chicago—are not expected to cut any figure in the results of the primary.

Senator Cummins is considered strong among Minnesota Republicans, but surprise is expressed nevertheless that his name is the only one of the "available" candidates whose name will appear on the ballot. Roosevelt could have figured in the primary had he so desired. Six months ago much talk was heard of Borah of Idaho, but of late there has been no mention of his name here in connection with the Republican nomination. Root and Fairbanks have never been much discussed out this way. Burton of Ohio and Weeks of Massachusetts have paid visits to Minnesota since the race began, but as with the others they failed to muster 500 followers willing to sign petitions to place their names on the ballot. So Minnesota is pretty certain to be enrolled under the Cummins' banner.

The Democrats have placed no rival in the field for Woodrow Wilson. The Progressives filed a petition for William W. Johnson muddled the situation by requesting that his name be withdrawn. The prohibitionists have withdrawn. The two candidates, neither of whom has heretofore been allied with the Prohibition party. They are William Sulzer, former Democratic congressman and governor of New York, and Eugene N. Tamm, one-time Republican congressman and later Democratic governor of Massachusetts.

SUFFRAGE DEBATE IS SET FOR TODAY AT ALBANY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22. (By United Press)—Suffragists and anti-suffragists are scheduled to meet here today on a legislative battle ground. The legislature has set a public hearing on the pending constitutional amendment, providing for equal suffrage. A similar referendum was defeated by last November's elections. The suffragists anxious to re-submit the question to the 1917 polls favor the present measure. Influenced by last fall's defeat, legislative leaders say they are "pretty busy to bother with suffrage this year." Advocates of "the cause," however, have a well-organized lobby in operation and "refuse to be put off."

BIDS TO BE ASKED SOON FOR NEW STREET LIGHTING

Experimenting With Different Types Completed—Single Post Decided Upon

The board of governors of the Chamber of Commerce authorized the bureau of municipal affairs of which G. M. Rosser is chairman to take up the ornamental street lighting proposition and secure bids for the construction of the system at an early date. The Chamber of Commerce has been trying to secure prices on the cable which will be laid under the streets, but has failed as the price of copper is constantly changing, the market being so far distant.

It is hoped that the bids for the work can be secured within the next week or two so that the proposition can be submitted to the borough council for their consideration. It cannot be submitted until prices on the work have been handed in.

The experimenting with the different lights has been completed and it has been decided to use the nitrogen type C single post lamps similar to that in front of the Leonardson Co. store.

BERLIN DOES NOT FAVOR ABANDONING SUBMARINE POLICY

Feeling Is That Americans Will Suffer If They Travel Amid Merchandise

Protests of United States Have No Effect on People—Lettens Not People Warning Them Against Taking Passage on Liners.

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Feb. 22.—Nowhere in Europe is evidenced the slightest desire to withhold Germany's new submarine warfare because of protests from the United States. The general feeling is that Americans must suffer the consequences if they embark on belligerent merchantmen carrying arms after March 1. The patient attitude displayed during the Lusitania negotiations is in plain view no longer exists, because of the popular feeling that America already has hindered so many of Germany's plans.

The Berlin newspapers have carried no discussion on reports of American attitude toward Germany's new campaign against armed merchantmen. It is generally known, however, that with inauguration of the new warfare, only right days distant, the difficulties between the two countries have not been solved. In some quarters it is believed a satisfactory settlement might be reached, to effect the greatest position possible.

New York, Feb. 22.—(By United Press).—Anonymous letters warning against taking passage on the ship Espagne because of danger of submarine attacks have been received by Americans intending to sail on the ship according to reports reaching New York today.

S. Banker Hittory today made public a letter which he had received. It is similar to the anonymous warnings received by Americans who sailed on the Lusitania and last week when the big Cunarder was torpedoed and sent to the bottom.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The British embassy will send to the home government notice of the warning given to Americans not to sail on the French liner Espagne due to the danger of submarine attacks. What steps the British government will take after receipt of the warning is not known at the embassy, it was stated.

Washington, Feb. 22. (By United Press)—An end of informal negotiations between Secretary of State Lansing and Ambassador Bismarck and the dispatch of final formal note to Germany emphasized the need for unequivocal assurance regarding submarine warfare has been practically decided upon by the administration. One thing only, it is said, can intervene, and that is the arrival from Berlin of definite assurance that the decree regarding the sinking of armed merchantmen without warning will not be put into effect March 1, it was announced. The decree must be made to square with promises made by Germany in the Lusitania case on changes.

WHAT DOCTOR ELIOT WANTS.

Aside from changes in school methods which are more or less a matter for specialists to agree upon, or to dispute over—and the latter they ever seem willing to do—the radical changes which Dr. Charles W. Eliot recommends for the public schools are largely in the nature of greater and more continuous use of the school plant during the day and night throughout the entire year, and an increase in the manual and practical courses, with special stress on the "culture" courses, including among the latter drawing and music.

As to the greater use of the school plant, which, among other things, is one of the fundamentals of the Gary system, there is no question that things are moving in that direction everywhere. It is, as Doctor Eliot says, absurd to close school doors and to turn the children out into the city streets for two months in the year. Aside from climatic difficulties, which can be overcome, it is becoming more and more recognized by the school authorities, from the primary to the university levels, that something must be done with the long vacations. Hence the summer school problem is an acute one, though it must be manifest that any extended use of the schools during the periods now given over to vacations will of necessity call for large additions to the teaching staffs and a greater money outlay all around. This is also the case with the freer use of the schools at night for cultural purposes, either for the young or the more mature. It can not be done by mere desire, but demands organization and large appropriations to secure the best results.

The physical side of Doctor Eliot's plan is, however, only a small part of his scheme, which, though it seems radical enough with the wider use of vocational and manual training courses now the vogue even in the conservative centres, while in the large cities at least a certain start has been made in the direction of his culture courses, which include a grasp of the fine arts and the "training of the senses." For this reason it is quite possible that the Eliot system could be put into operation in many centres without altogether upsetting existing methods or disrupting school organizations. But, above all, the question of cost comes in, for the distinguished educator has not made the mistake of saying, as others have, that his system costs less for plant and staff. Hence, any discussion of the Eliot plan can be made with the practical fact of the cost in full view. Though, if what he says is true in all particulars, and many of his contentions are unassailable, why not pay out the money for this higher cultural efficiency, for shall we not get it back in the very products of our industries and commercial activities.—Public Ledger.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—"With their ports of import closed and their trade with neighboring neutral ports restricted, there must be a certain shortage in the lands of the war-bound powers in tea and coffee, the twin harbingers of day throughout the civilized world. With the exception of Russia, all parts of Europe begin the day with coffee just as does this country. The Russian day begins and stops, and ends in tea. The German day begins in coffee and ends in tea and beer. In Austria, as in France, the day runs from a pot of coffee to a demi-tasse. In Turkey, coffee takes the place of the soda fountain and the saloon, beginning and ending all things. A shortage in these two most widely accepted drinks must work a considerable discount upon comfort." In these words the National Geographic society begins a pleasing little story of the coffee pot and the tea urn in their relations to the European war and to the comfort of humanity. The story then goes on:

"The people of the world annually consume more than two and one-half billion pounds of coffee—enough to load a train of cars reaching from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. Three-fourths of this is grown in Brazil, a country that has become rich from its coffee industry alone. Europe and North America bear approximately the same relation to the consumption of coffee that Brazil does to its production, these two continents using nearly four-fifths of all the coffee the world produces.

"Holland is the greatest coffee-drinking nation on the globe. It uses 15 1-8 pounds per capita annually, while we use 9 1-2 pounds, Germany 5 1-8 pounds, Austria-Hungary 2 2-5 pounds, and the United Kingdom 2-3 of a pound. On the other hand, we use less than one pound of tea per capita, where the United Kingdom uses nearly seven pounds. Canada is about two-thirds English and one-third American in its use of coffee and tea; it shows a decided preference for tea, but drinks less of it than the mother country, making up the difference with coffee. The Germans and the Austrians use only a negligible quantity of tea.

"The coffee plant is a shrub which, under cultivation, grows from 4 to 6 feet high. In its wild state it grows three or four times as high as in its cultivated state. The dwarfing of the plant increases the crop and facilitates picking. The leaves are of a fresh green color; the flowers are white and have an odor strongly resembling jasmine.

"The green coffee berry of commerce is nothing more nor less than the seeds of the coffee 'cherry.' These 'cherries' turn crimson on ripening. They are then picked, the pulp is taken off by machinery, and the two husks which lie between the pulp and seeds themselves are removed. The coffee has to be thoroughly dried before the husks can be taken off, and on many plantations there are whole acres of concrete floors for this drying process.

"When run through machinery for the removal of the husks, these latter are blown away like chaff, and the coffee grains are run over sieves so arranged as to grade them and bag them according to size, ready to be shipped to the world's markets.

"The growing of tea is largely an Asiatic industry. The tea plant is a hardy evergreen shrub, growing from 12 to 15 feet high in its wild state, but dwarfed under cultivation. It prefers a subtropical climate where the rainfall approximates 50 inches a year. After the leaves are picked the tea reaches its commercial state by two routes—one producing the black variety of tea and the other the green.

"The leaves are first dried in the sun in the case of the black tea, and in pans over fire in the case of the green tea. In both processes the leaves are next rolled until soft. Black tea is next fermented, then fired, and finally sorted. Green tea is withered again following the rolling process, sorted into bags, and then slowly roasted.

"In China most of the tea gardens are small, each farmer producing enough for the consumption of his own family, and a little surplus which he sends to market.

"The department of agriculture has interested itself in the production of tea in this country, and has issued a bulletin which reveals the fact that in South Carolina and elsewhere on the southern Atlantic seaboard America has proved a successful grower of this plant."

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Tee," at any pharmacy. Take a teaspoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BADTAKESALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been Eating too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms an acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sic headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink.

Stomach Troubles Quickly Cured.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years, and imagine they have a serious disease. They over-eat or over-drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work, but they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do the extra work.

If these people would take Tonaline Tablets regularly they would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of over-work. No matter what you eat or drink Tonaline tabs sweeten your sour stomach and stop gas belching in five minutes. The heaviness disappears, and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

not only promptly relieves all distress, but if taken regularly will absolutely cure indigestion by building up the flabby, overworked walls of the stomach and make them strong enough to digest the most hearty meal.

Flavelle of Chicago, on board a train in northern Italy in May, 1914, came up for trial today at Arezzo. Mrs. Flavelle, who was 70 years old, was brought to a hospital in Rome after the attack and recovered sufficiently to return to Chicago, but she died the following December.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

By EREEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.

WE believe that the House which sticks to the 2¢ with its Advertising, is reasonably sure to stick to the Facts in its Selling. You have never yet found anything so Goodrich Advertising which was not in the Goods it advertised.

Hence, you may pin your faith to the following statement: —Goodrich Safety-Tires—This gives, with most UNIFORMITY, the greatest MILEAGE and Result is at the lowest Cost, per Mile, to the User. Test them and see!

MORE than 75,000,000 automobiles are in use in the United States. We believe that everyone of these makes a good tires as he knows how, the lowest cost tire experience, E. F. Goodrich and Methods make possible.

We believe that the average Tire Manufacturer is just in his element if Adjustments, and that few deliberately misrepresent their product, either verbally or in print.

We believe that no Tire Manufacturer can afford to make statements in print about his product which statements cannot be borne out by the performance of his tires, in actual use.

We believe that the Tire has never been made which will not "Run-Cut" if run "flat" for any considerable distance, and that many makers, including ourselves, have always produced Tires that would not otherwise "Run-Cut."

WAR ONE ROMANCE

ENDS IN HAPPY MARRIAGE

Musician Married to Daughter of Canadian Financier Last Week

New York, Feb. 22. (By United Press)—On the wharf here today as Mr. and Mrs. Yves Nat sailed away on their honeymoon to France, stood a strange triumvirate of gods; Mars, Midas and Cupid, smiling their united benediction upon this happy conclusion of the war zone romance they three hatched up. Mr. Nat is a pianist well known in the United States and France. Nearsightedness prevents the artist from serving at the front, but he has devoted himself to war relief work in America and Europe ever since the war began. Mrs. Nat was Miss Finney Sutherland, only daughter of the late Canadian financier, Daniel Fraser Sutherland, of Winchester, Ontario. After her father's death Miss Sutherland became the active manager of the twenty-five Canadian banks her father bequeathed her. It was in pursuit of the affairs of Midas, god of gold, that Miss Sutherland met Mr. Nat, who was seeking funds at the behest of Mars, god of war, for the relief of some of Mars' victims. In New York, in Paris and in Ontario on several occasions the two met. Then Cupid (you all know him), came slipping around the corner and shot them both with a weapon more fatal than any Mars, with all his science and ingenuity in munitions making, has devised. Mrs. Nat is a friend of Mrs. David Belasco, who was one of the few guests at the wedding here a few days ago. In Paris, Mrs. Nat will organize recreation centers for Canadian soldiers on furlough and Mr. Nat will devote himself to the work of the Appuy aux Artistes, an organization that cares for the families of desolate artists.

MARSHALL NOT EXPECTED TO BE RENOMINATED IN JUNE

Unusual Distinction to Run For Vice President Twice

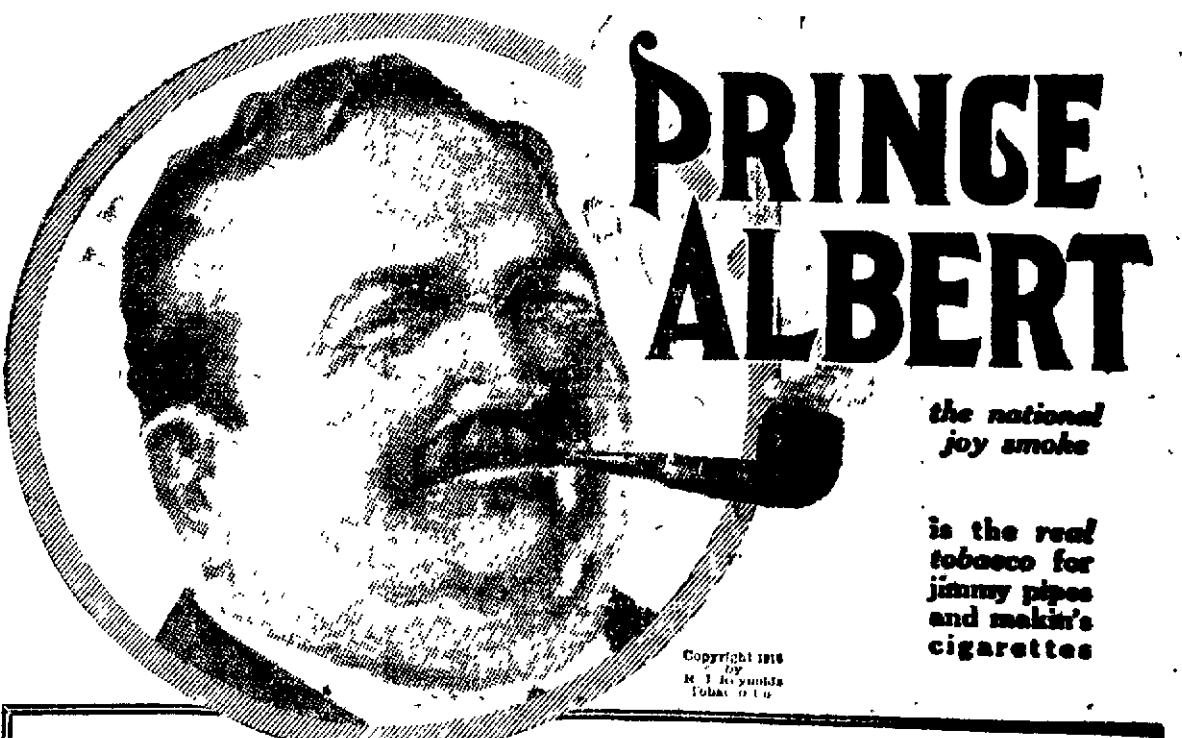

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—The continued silence of President Wilson as to his preference for a running mate on the national ticket this year has served to strengthen the rumors that Mr. Marshall is not likely to be renominated at the St. Louis convention. Mr. Marshall himself has given his friends to understand that, while he is perfectly willing to accept renomination, he is not going to seek the honor. Now the Marshall opposition is beginning to sound the alarm by mentioning other names in connection with the second place on the ticket. One of the most prominent of those suggested for the place is Congressman Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, who is ranking majority member of the house ways and means committee.

If Mr. Marshall shall be named a second time for vice president it will be an unusual distinction. It was in 1882 that all presidential candidates were for the first time nominated by conventions, and only once since then has a vice president been renominated by the Republicans at Chicago with little or no prospect of his re-election, and only to die before election day arrived. The Democrats have never renominated a vice president.

All those who fail to see the "Minstrel Quartette" in the home talent show at the Opera House next week will miss something fine.

Don't Crowd Your Ad.

By BREEN.

Some advertisers make the mistake of trying to crowd a page of type into a few inches.

Display your ad. Make it catchy.

If you buy a few inches in a newspaper don't try to make them carry a couple of hundred words. Newspaper readers will not wear strong glasses to read small type.

When you decide to advertise a certain article pick out its best points. Then briefly tell what they are. Emphasize in big type.

Then you'll get results.

Big Business Recognizes Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

OHIO CITIZENS MOVED BY PREPAREDNESS SPEECH

Many Towns and Cities are Forming Gun Clubs

Cleveland, O., Feb. 22. (By United Press)—Ohio cities, moved by President Wilson's preparedness speeches, are getting ready to resist the invader, whoever the enemy may be, and whenever he may come. Citizens' military companies have been organized, rifle clubs formed and endorsements framed by chambers of commerce. In Cleveland, arrangements are going forward for a monster military parade on Washington's birthday as a demonstration of the city's support of preparedness. A citizens' school, with 700 recruits enrolled, drills rookies at night in military tactics. S. S. Walsh has donated the use of 18 acres of land in the city limits for use as a rifle range. At Canton, O., a citizens' military school, conducted by O. N. G. officers, with 300 men enrolled, has been started. A rifle club of 100 has also been formed and the defense committee, headed by Mayor C. A. Stobbe, is planning to organize a light artillery company. Dayton is organizing a citizens' military company. A machine gun company was recently established as part of the national guard. Youngstown has a citizens' military company of 350 men. The chamber of commerce has endorsed preparedness. Steubenville has a rifle club just organized, and plans to establish a county, encompassing similar to the Plattsburg camp, next summer. National guard officers at Geneva and Ashtabula have endorsed preparedness and the chamber of commerce is trying to secure a government munitions plant. Sandusky has revived its national guard company and has formed a citizens' military company. Warren is planning a citizens' military company. Fremont has begun a campaign for a new armory, and a citizens military company. Painesville's Paradise club has leased a rifle range. Mansfield has a citizens' reserve company.

WIRELESS MESSAGE RELAYED ACROSS U. S. BY AMATEURS

Message Reached Clearfield at 11:40 Started at Davenport Iowa and Sent to Every State in the Union.

Last evening at eleven o'clock, a message was flashed from Davenport, Iowa, which was relayed throughout the United States by amateur wireless operators and in many cities was carried to the mayor by boy scouts. There were no government stations in this relay as value the amateur operators would be to the government in spreading a report, such as in case of war.

The message as received by the Leitinger machine was as follows: "A democracy requires that a people who govern and educate themselves should be so armed and disciplined that they can protect themselves."

The message was started at eleven o'clock eastern time and it took the amateur operators only one hour and eleven minutes to spread the message throughout the United States. Over three hundred operators in every state in the union received this message and then relayed on to some other station. On account of a federal law, amateur operators are allowed to operate a machine which can send a message only seventy miles.

The message was received at Ridgeway at 11:40 o'clock and was then sent to Clearfield. The boy scouts of Company No. 2, who were awaiting the message, left the Leitinger store at 11:35 and therefore did not get to carry it to the burgess, as they had planned.

Behind this demonstration stands a wholly serious experiment for the government as this was an effort on the part of army officials to ascertain the value of amateur operators in sending a government message to every city in the country. The experiment was a complete success and the message was spread in less time than was expected by the officials.

Four of the victims were trapped inside the house and their bodies were found after the flames fought their way through the flames to the upper floor. An unidentified man jumped from the rear window on the fourth floor and struck a fence. His head was almost severed. The boarding house was a five story stone structure just off Broadway which had formerly been a private residence. A restaurant is on the ground floor. G.O.P. DELEGATES OF MINNESOTA TO VOTE FOR CUMMINS

Several Other Aspirants For Nomination Fail to Secure Signatures to Place Names on Ballot.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 22.—Four weeks from today a general primary will be held in Minnesota for the selection of delegates to the national political conventions. Under the law choice of candidates must be expressed by ballot, somebody in particular must be voted for. The candidates for delegates to the national conventions must signify their choice of presidential candidate and place their names under his. They cannot express preference for a presidential candidate on the ballot.

Six months ago many the Republican leaders were anathematizing the "cumbersome" primary law and wondering how it would work out in actual practice. As a petition with 500 signatures is all that is required to put a candidate for the presidential nomination in the running, it was predicted that there would be such a long list of candidates on the ballot that the voters would be all at sea when it came to expressing their choice.

But nothing of the kind has occurred. The names of only three aspirants for the Republican presidential nomination will appear on the ballot, and of these only one is considered in the running. That one is Senator A. B. Cummins of Iowa, who is considered certain to have the support of the Minnesota delegates at the Chicago convention. The other two—Henry Estabrook, of New York, and William G. Webster, of Chicago—are not expected to cut any figure in the results of the primary.

Senator Cummins is considered strong among Minnesota Republicans, but surprise is expressed nevertheless that his name is the only one of the "available" candidates whose name will appear on the ballot. Roosevelt could have figured in the primary had he so desired. Six months ago much talk was heard of Borah of Idaho, but of late there has been no mention of his name here in connection with the Republican nomination. Root and Fairbanks have never been much discussed out this way. Burton of Ohio and Weeks of Massachusetts have paid visits to Minnesota since the race began, but as with the others they failed to muster 500 followers willing to sign petitions to place their names on the ballot. So Minnesota is pretty certain to be enrolled under the Cummins' banner.

The Democrats have placed no rival in the field for Woodrow Wilson. The Progressives filed a petition for William W. Johnson muddled the situation by requesting that his name be withdrawn. The prohibitionists have withdrawn. The two candidates, neither of whom has heretofore been allied with the Prohibition party. They are William Sulzer, former Democratic congressman and governor of New York, and Eugene N. Foss, one-time Republican congressman and later Democratic governor of Massachusetts.

SUFFRAGE DEBATE IS SET FOR TODAY AT ALBANY

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 22. (By United Press)—Suffragists and anti-suffragists are scheduled to meet here today on a legislative battle ground. The legislature has set a public hearing on the pending constitutional amendment, providing for equal suffrage. A similar referendum was defeated by last November's elections. The suffragists anxious to re-submit the question to the 1917 polls favor the present measure. Influenced by last fall's defeat, legislative leaders say they are "pretty busy to bother with suffrage this year." Advocates of "the cause," however, have a well-organized lobby in operation and "refuse to be put off."

BIDS TO BE ASKED SOON FOR NEW STREET LIGHTING

Experimenting With Different Types Completed—Single Post Decided Upon

The board of governors of the Chamber of Commerce authorized the bureau of municipal affairs of which G. M. Rosser is chairman to take up the ornamental street lighting proposition and secure bids for the construction of the system at an early date. The Chamber of Commerce has been trying to secure prices on the cable which will be laid under the streets, but has failed as the price of copper is constantly changing, the market being so far distant.

It is hoped that the bids for the work can be secured within the next week or two so that the proposition can be submitted to the borough council for their consideration. It cannot be submitted until prices on the work have been handed in.

The experimenting with the different lights has been completed and it has been decided to use the nitrogen type C single post lamps similar to that in front of the Leonardson Co. store.

BERLIN DOES NOT FAVOR ABANDONING SUBMARINE POLICY

Feeling Is That Americans Will Suffer If They Travel Amid Merchandise

Protests of United States Have No Effect on People—Lettens Root People Warning Then Against Taking Passage on Liners.

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Berlin, Feb. 22.—Nowhere in Europe is evidenced the slightest desire to withhold Germany's new submarine warfare because of protests from the United States. The general feeling is that Americans must suffer the consequences if they embark on belligerent merchantmen carrying arms after March 1. The patient attitude displayed during the Lusitania negotiations is in plain view no longer exists, because of the popular feeling that America already has hindered so many of Germany's plans.

The Berlin newspapers have carried no discussion on reports of American attitude toward Germany's new campaign against armed merchantmen. It is generally known, however, that with inauguration of the new warfare, only right days distant, the difficulties between the two countries have not been solved. In some quarters it is believed a satisfactory settlement might be reached, to effect the greatest position possible.

New York, Feb. 22.—(By United Press).—Anonymous letters warning against taking passage on the ship Espagne because of danger of submarine attacks have been received by Americans intending to sail on the ship according to reports reaching New York today.

S. Banker Hittory today made public a letter which he had received. It is similar to the anonymous warnings received by Americans who sailed on the Lusitania and last week when the big Cunarder was torpedoed and sent to the bottom.

Washington, Feb. 22.—The British embassy will send to the home government notice of the warning given to Americans not to sail on the French liner Espagne due to sail from New York Friday. What steps the British government will take after receipt of the warning is not known at the embassy, it was stated.

Washington, Feb. 22. (By United Press)—An end of informal negotiations between Secretary of State Lansing and Ambassador Bismarck and the dispatch of final formal note to Germany emphasized the need for unequivocal assurance regarding submarine warfare has been practically decided upon by the administration. One thing only, it is said, can intervene, and that is the arrival from Berlin of definite assurance that the decree regarding the sinking of armed merchantmen without warning will not be put into effect March 1, it was announced. The decree must be made to square with promises made by Germany in the Lusitania case on changes.

WHAT DOCTOR ELIOT WANTS.

Aside from changes in school methods which are more or less a matter for specialists to agree upon, or to dispute over—and the latter they ever seem willing to do—the radical changes which Dr. Charles W. Eliot recommends for the public schools are largely in the nature of greater and more continuous use of the school plant during the day and night throughout the entire year, and an increase in the manual and practical courses, with special stress on the "culture" courses, including among the latter drawing and music.

As to the greater use of the school plant, which, among other things, is one of the fundamentals of the Gary system, there is no question that things are moving in that direction everywhere. It is, as Doctor Eliot says, absurd to close school doors and to turn the children out into the city streets for two months in the year. Aside from climatic difficulties, which can be overcome, it is becoming more and more recognized by the school authorities, from the primary to the university levels, that something must be done with the long vacations. Hence the summer school problem is an acute one, though it must be manifest that any extended use of the schools during the periods now given over to vacations will of necessity call for large additions to the teaching staffs and a greater money outlay all around. This is also the case with the freer use of the schools at night for cultural purposes, either for the young or the more mature. It can not be done by mere desire, but demands organization and large appropriations to secure the best results.

The physical side of Doctor Eliot's plan is, however, only a small part of his scheme, which, though it seems radical enough with the wider use of vocational and manual training courses now the vogue even in the conservative centres, while in the large cities at least a certain start has been made in the direction of his culture courses, which include a grasp of the fine arts and the "training of the senses." For this reason it is quite possible that the Eliot system could be put into operation in many centres without altogether upsetting existing methods or disrupting school organizations. But, above all, the question of cost comes in, for the distinguished educator has not made the mistake of saying, as others have, that his system costs less for plant and staff. Hence, any discussion of the Eliot plan can be made with the practical fact of the cost in full view. Though, if what he says is true in all particulars, and many of his contentions are unassailable, why not pay out the money for this higher cultural efficiency, for shall we not get it back in the very products of our industries and commercial activities.—Public Ledger.

Today's Geographic Study of The Great European War Zone

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—"With their ports of import closed and their trade with neighboring neutral ports restricted, there must be a certain shortage in the lands of the war-bound powers in tea and coffee, the twin harbingers of day throughout the civilized world. With the exception of Russia, all parts of Europe begin the day with coffee just as does this country. The Russian day begins and stops, and ends in tea. The German day begins in coffee and ends in tea and beer. In Austria, as in France, the day runs from a pot of coffee to a demi-tasse. In Turkey, coffee takes the place of the soda fountain and the saloon, beginning and ending all things. A shortage in these two most widely accepted drinks must work a considerable discount upon comfort." In these words the National Geographic society begins a pleasing little story of the coffee pot and the tea urn in their relations to the European war and to the comfort of humanity. The story then goes on:

"The people of the world annually consume more than two and one-half billion pounds of coffee—enough to load a train of cars reaching from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. Three-fourths of this is grown in Brazil, a country that has become rich from its coffee industry alone. Europe and North America bear approximately the same relation to the consumption of coffee that Brazil does to its production, these two continents using nearly four-fifths of all the coffee the world produces.

"Holland is the greatest coffee-drinking nation on the globe. It uses 15 1-8 pounds per capita annually, while we use 9 1-2 pounds, Germany 5 1-8 pounds, Austria-Hungary 2 2-5 pounds, and the United Kingdom 2-3 of a pound. On the other hand, we use less than one pound of tea per capita, where the United Kingdom uses nearly seven pounds. Canada is about two-thirds English and one-third American in its use of coffee and tea; it shows a decided preference for tea, but drinks less of it than the mother country, making up the difference with coffee. The Germans and the Austrians use only a negligible quantity of tea.

"The coffee plant is a shrub which, under cultivation, grows from 4 to 6 feet high. In its wild state it grows three or four times as high as in its cultivated state. The dwarfing of the plant increases the crop and facilitates picking. The leaves are of a fresh green color; the flowers are white and have an odor strongly resembling jasmine.

"The green coffee berry of commerce is nothing more nor less than the seeds of the coffee 'cherry.' These 'cherries' turn crimson on ripening. They are then picked, the pulp is taken off by machinery, and the two husks which lie between the pulp and seeds themselves are removed. The coffee has to be thoroughly dried before the husks can be taken off, and on many plantations there are whole acres of concrete floors for this drying process.

When run through machinery for the removal of the husks, these latter are blown away like chaff, and the coffee grains are run over sieves so arranged as to grade them and bag them according to size, ready to be shipped to the world's markets.

The growing of tea is largely an Asiatic industry. The tea plant is a hardy evergreen shrub, growing from 12 to 15 feet high in its wild state, but dwarfed under cultivation. It prefers a subtropical climate where the rainfall approximates 50 inches a year. After the leaves are picked the tea reaches its commercial state by two routes—one producing the black variety of tea and the other the green.

"The leaves are first dried in the sun in the case of the black tea, and in pans over fire in the case of the green tea. In both processes the leaves are next rolled until soft. Black tea is next fermented, then fired, and finally sorted. Green tea is withered again following the rolling process, sorted into bags, and then slowly roasted.

"In China most of the tea gardens are small, each farmer producing enough for the consumption of his own family, and a little surplus which he sends to market.

"The department of agriculture has interested itself in the production of tea in this country, and has issued a bulletin which reveals the fact that in South Carolina and elsewhere on the southern Atlantic seaboard America has proved a successful grower of this plant."

IF KIDNEYS ACT BADTAKESALTS

Says Backache is sign you have been Eating too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms an acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sic headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Stomach Troubles Quickly Cured.

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years, and imagine they have a serious disease. They over-eat or over-drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work, but they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do the extra work.

If these people would take Tonaline Tablets regularly they would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of over-work. No matter what you eat or drink Tonaline tabs sweeten your sour stomach and stop gas belching in five minutes. The heaviness disappears, and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

not only promptly relieves all distress, but if taken regularly will absolutely cure indigestion by building up the flabby, overworked walls of the stomach and make them strong enough to digest the most hearty meal.

DANDRUFF QUICKLY STOPPED.

There is only one way to cure dandruff and that is to kill the germ. There is only one hair preparation that will kill the germ and that is Mildredina Hair Remedy. This unusual hair restorer with its record of thousands of cures will grow hair on any head where there is any life left; it cures dandruff, stops falling hair and itching of the scalp in three weeks or your money back.

It is the most pleasant and invigorating tonic, is not sticky or greasy and is used extensively by ladies of refinement who desire to have and to keep their hair soft, lustrous and luxuriant. 50c and $1.00 a bottle at druggists everywhere.

FREE—We will send a large bottle free by return mail to anyone sending this coupon to Mildred Louise Co., Boston, Mass., with name and address and 10c in silver to pay postage.

Rome, Feb. 22.—The case of Pietro Rossi, the young Florentine art student who robbed and attempted to kill Mrs. Mary E. Flavelle of Chicago, on board a train in northern Italy in May, 1914, came up for trial today at Arezzo. Mrs. Flavelle, while journeying from Florence to Perugia, was shot and robbed by Rossi, who later confessed that he committed the deed to obtain money with which to complete his art studies. He was desperate he declared, because the money sent him by his parents had been squandered in gambling. Mrs. Flavelle, who was 70 years old, was brought to a hospital in Rome after the attack and recovered sufficiently to return to Chicago, but she died the following December.

Pity the Man Who Doesn't Advertise!

By EREEN.

"I have an established business. I don't require advertising."

That is the answer of some self satisfied man to a request for advertising. Meanwhile his progressive neighbor is using printer's ink lavishly.

The result is obvious. It's only a question of time. The self satisfied business man soon finds his trade disappearing. His progressive neighbor goes ahead with leaps and bounds. Every business, no matter how firmly established, needs advertising. If it isn't advertised it soon will be in a rut. Don't get in a rut. Advertise.

WE believe that the House which sticks to the 2¢ with its Advertising is reasonably sure to stick to the Facts in its Selling.

You have never yet found anything so Goodrich Advertising which was not in the Goods it advertised.

Hence, you may pin your faith to the following statement: —Goodrich Safety Tires—This gives, with most UNIFORMITY, the greatest MILEAGE per Dollar of Cost—in its Tires.

—THE PROOF of the Tire is in the Mileage thereof.

Dependability—versus Ingenious Claims

MORE than 75,000,000 automobiles are in use in the United States. We believe that everyone of these makes a good Tire as he knows how, the lowest cost Tire experience, E. J. Goodrich and his methods make possible.

We believe that the average Tire Manufacturer is just in his Government of Adjustments, and that few deliberately misrepresent their product, either verbally or in print.

We believe that no Tire Manufacturer can afford to make statements in print about his product which statements cannot be borne out by the performance of his tires, in actual use.

We believe that the Tire has never been made which will not "Run-Cut" if run "flat" for any considerable distance, and that many makers, including ourselves, have always produced Tires that would not otherwise "Run-Cut."

Only 5% Plus for this Best Non-Skid

WAR ONE ROMANCE ENDS IN HAPPY MARRIAGE

Musician Married to Daughter of Canadian Financier Last Week

New York, Feb. 22. (By United Press)—On the wharf here today as Mr. and Mrs. Yves Nat sailed away on their honeymoon to France, stood a strange triumvirate of gods; Mars, Midas and Cupid, smiling their united benediction upon this happy conclusion of the war zone romance they three hatched up. Mr. Nat is a pianist well known in the United States and France. Nearsightedness prevents the artist from serving at the front, but he has devoted himself to war relief work in America and Europe ever since the war began. Mrs. Nat was Miss Finney Sutherland, only daughter of the late Canadian financier, Daniel Fraser Sutherland, of Winchester, Ontario. After her father's death Miss Sutherland became the active manager of the twenty-five Canadian banks her father bequeathed her. It was in pursuit of the affairs of Midas, god of gold, that Miss Sutherland met Mr. Nat, who was seeking funds at the behest of Mars, god of war, for the relief of some of Mars' victims. In New York, in Paris and in Ontario on several occasions the two met. Then Cupid (you all know him), came slipping around the corner and shot them both with a weapon more fatal than any Mars, with all his science and ingenuity in munitions making, has devised. Mrs. Nat is a friend of Mrs. David Belasco, who was one of the few guests at the wedding here a few days ago. In Paris, Mrs. Nat will organize recreation centers for Canadian soldiers on furlough and Mr. Nat will devote himself to the work of the Appuy aux Artistes, an organization that cares for the families of desolate artists.

MARSHALL NOT EXPECTED TO BE RENOMINATED IN JUNE

Unusual Distinction to Run For Vice President Twice

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—The continued silence of President Wilson as to his preference for a running mate on the national ticket this year has served to strengthen the rumors that Mr. Marshall is not likely to be renominated at the St. Louis convention. Mr. Marshall himself has given his friends to understand that, while he is perfectly willing to accept renomination, he is not going to seek the honor. Now the Marshall opposition is beginning to sound the alarm by mentioning other names in connection with the second place on the ticket. One of the most prominent of those suggested for the place is Congressman Henry T. Rainey, of Illinois, who is ranking majority member of the house ways and means committee.

If Mr. Marshall shall be named a second time for vice president it will be an unusual distinction. It was in 1882 that all presidential candidates were for the first time nominated by conventions, and only once since then has a vice president been renominated by the Republicans at Chicago with little or no prospect of his re-election, and only to die before election day arrived. The Democrats have never renominated a vice president.

All those who fail to see the "Minstrel Quartette" in the home talent show at the Opera House next week will miss something fine.

Don't Crowd Your Ad.

By BREEN.

Some advertisers make the mistake of trying to crowd a page of type into a few inches.

Display your ad. Make it catchy.

If you buy a few inches in a newspaper don't try to make them carry a couple of hundred words. Newspaper readers will not wear strong glasses to read small type.

When you decide to advertise a certain article pick out its best points. Then briefly tell what they are. Emphasize in big type.

Then you'll get results.

Geo. H. Lum

Sales Manager DUBOIS, A.

Big Business Recognizes Publicity.

By BREEN.

In latter years the biggest enterprises in this country have recognized the value of advertising. The men in charge of their advertising campaigns are paid splendid salaries. In fact, no branch of the business receives more attention. Publicity and advertising form the keynote of success.

If big business needs advertising doesn't small business need it?

Every man in business needs advertising. If his business is a success he needs advertising to keep it so. If his business is struggling liberal advertising will build it up.

The Workmen's Cash grocery will open on Wednesday, March 1, in the Newling block on Third street. We will pay you for delivering your own goods. Watch for the list of prices.
